MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY, KY., FRIDAY, SEPT. 15, 1911.

NUMBER 51

JUDGE WILLIAMS WRITES ON GOOD ROADS FOR ROCKCASTLE AND HOW TO GET THEM.

In our neighboring County of Lincoln where they have good roads, sixty-five per cent. of the children attend the public school. In the County of Marshall, where splendid roads prevail, sixty-eight per cent of the children attend school. In Rockcastle, where the roads are a curse and abomination, only thirty-nine per cent of the children attend.

Rockcastle is also known as a "Pauper County". This condition is the fault of the people because with bad roads our farmers have not enriched themselves and the children have poor means of education because of the very rough and rocky roads to the school houses. Where you see good roads, you find the farmers with plenty in the purse, neat looking and productive farms and the children well educated. Our citizens have been painfully slow in demanding better highways. Even our good women do not realize their power, or, doing so, fail to exert it for a cause that will greatly benefit the home. The only way to get good roads is to work for them. A Good Roads Association should be formed in Rockcastle for the purpose of an effective agitation of this question. People must fully realize that to make the farms profitable, we must have improved roads. Such an organization will produce an effective agitation and develop a desire for better roads. It will also encourage the Fiscal Court to construct roads and bridges. Good roads will create a demand for better school houses, larger school districts, more and better qualified teachers.

If a railroad encounters a high grade over a hill, which means excessive use of coal and slow train and light loads, the company cuts down the heavy grades to save coal bills, to move freight faster and to carry bigger train loads. It borrows money to make stronger culverts and bridges to bear heavier trains and the railroad officials all agree that it is good business sense and economy to borrow all this money, if need be, to make these improvements. If the people of Rockcastle must have better roads. They must get money with which to build them. With them the farmer can get from his farm to market or the shipping station much quicker and carry a much bigger load. In other words, "Time saved is money made." Not only does the farmer save time by having good roads, but he actually saves money that is now paid out on broken harness, broken wagons, destruction of horses and additional feed for his work stock. Yet all the time he hauls only half a load on bad roads. The roads are so bad in Rockcastle that they keep progressive home seekers out and drive many of our best people away. Something must be done to invite capital and labor to locate here and to retain our best class of citizens. It is to good roads and better schools, to the proper development of the farms and our vast mineral resources that Rockcastle must look largely for her growth and prosperity. The members of a Good Roads Association would know the truth of what we say, but there will be many not members who do not appreciate or understand the true value or advantage derived yearly from improved highways. At these we must keep pounding that they, too may join the association of road advocates, struggling for better highways, that our farmers may make money faster and easier and that their children may have opportunities equal to the children in other states and other counties in "Old Kentucky". Rockcastle children are as worthy of care and attention as other children and we must at least provide them with equal advantages. To do so, the citizens of Rockcastle must be up and doing, with a hand and heart for every thing that will improve our general condition. We have been paying a mud road tax long enough. Let us begin to pay a good road tax. We will quickly see the advantage of it. At this time we find the people of Rockcastle wanting roads. Hence the best, the quickest and most businesslike way is to submit to the voters of Rockcastle the question of a bond issue for the construction of them, the amount to be equally distributed in the five magisterial districts of the county. Or another plan could be used successfully. Let the Fiscal Court agree to give $1000.00 on each mile of pike to be built, the remainder of the cost to be made up by private subscription. Next year we will have state aid and with the help of both, our prospects for better roads are brighter, it our people but wake up and vote to benefit themselves and to furnish the children an opportunity for better education.

Mr. Laboring Man, strike and strike hard for better roads, while the merchants and professional men should wake up and drive home to every voter this all important question. Gentlemen we can have better roads in Rockcastle, so let's go to work and get them and rest not until we have them.

Respectfully,
R. G. WILLIAMS.

INTERESTING ARTICLE

In response to a suggestion made by the SIGNAL some time since that we should have a writeup of some of leading families, Mr. D. T. Chesnut, of Oklahoma, who was at that time visiting in Corbin, contributes this splendid article.

Mr. Albright:

I have just read in SIGNAL your suggestions about history of Rockcastle county and I will be glad to render any assistance I can in way of getting up such facts as will be of interest I can only remember back to about 1854 and not very much that transpired till after that time as I was born in 1849. My grandfather Little Abe Chesnut lived on the old farm at Pleasant Valley now Cooks. My father Ben Chesnut was born there in 1830 and there were several children older than he so that my grandfather must have lived there as early as 1820 or possibly before that time. W. P. James, Bennett, (my father) Ben, Abe Jr., Lucy (who married Jonathan Newcomb) and Mary the youngest who married Capt. R. L. Myres were the children. My grandmother was Summers Hiatt before her marriage all those named I knew and remember well except my uncle Bennett. My grandfather on my mother's side was Charles Colyer and his wife Mary (Polly) Reufro. They began house keeping sometime I think about 1814 or 15 settled the place now known as Brush Creek and resided there till 1854 and moved to Laurel county; my grandfather Charley Colyer represented Laurel and Rockcastle counties in the Legislature sometime in the 40's at the time the first act of Legislature establishing public school fund and providing a tax of sets on the $100 worth of property. If I am not mistaken it was he that got an appropriation of some lands on Green River to be sold and the proceeds was used in building the seminary at London and I think it was he that got an appropriation that paid for the making of the culvert and fill at south end of town of Mt. Vernon and the grading of the road "around the hill" going south from Mt. Vernon. While living at Brush Creek (Roundstone) my grandfather engaged in the goods business using as many as six, six horse teams (with those old fashioned high beds low front wheels and high hind wheels) in hauling goods and selling between Louisville and points in Va., and Tenn., and on return trips load with country produce, leathers, ginseng, beeswax, wrapping twine etc., he also made mill stones and hauled them to distant points. I could have known enough of my ancestors to have filled a large book had I cared to before it was too late both my grandfathers were well posted men and would gladly have told me a hundred times more than they did if I had asked them or even let them know that I was anxious to know but I did not and now too late. My grandfather Colyer was in the war of 1812 and his father with 6 brothers 7 brothers in all were in the Revolution and I am very sorry that I do not know more about all of them. My grandfather Jacob Chesnut and three brothers (4 brothers) were the first settlers where London now stands. I have traveled a good deal and in every state I have found Chesnuts and Colyers and can always trace Chestnuts back to Ky., and usually to Laurel county the Colliers (Colyers) are a little more difficult to trace back but if I knew names of my great grandfather and his six brothers I think I could find where nearly all the Colliers (or Colyers) were akin. I could tell many anecdotes told me by my grandfather Colyer but will only tell one as told by him when he was elected to the Legislature. He was opposed by Wilson of Laurel and I think Smith of Rockcastle. On one occasion my grandfather told Smith that they would tie to about 22 votes in Laurel and sure enough they did. Smith had claimed a majority in both counties but lost the election at that time was for 3 days after my grandfather was elected some of Smith's friends told him about what he said about winning the election when Smith replied "Don't you think that the very last day of the election and late in the evening seventy five of the best friends I had come up and voted against me". I only started to write a few words to tell you when you got ready I would help you to what I could learn and now have wrote enough for a column and could tell as much more about other families in Rockcastle as about my own but must stop.

Sincerely,
D. T. CHESNUT

GOVERNOR McCREARY ANSWERS JUDGE O'REAR.

Judge O'Rear has but one string to his harp—"county unit"—and he thumps on it all day and far into the night. Although every law for the promotion of temperance in this State has been put on the Statute books by the Democrats; he claims to be the original discoverer of the "county unit" idea, and that he alone must be trusted with its enforcement.

When the Democrats put the plank in their platform, Judge O'Rear was quick to proclaim it a fraudulent, lying device to catch votes. He even went further and charged that Governor McCreary did not favor the "county unit"; that he did not want it in the platform, and that he would not dare to stand on it.

But Governor McCreary, biding his time, very properly, until his opening address, gave the lie to these assertions. He stood on every plank of the Democratic platform. In reference to the "county unit" question, and giving an explicit answer to Judge O'Rear's sneaking question, he made the following frank, sincere answer:

"Judge O'Rear, in his speech at Nayfield, on the 31st day of August asked me to answer the following questions:

"Are you in favor of the extension of the county unit law in Kentucky, etc., and when did you come to that conclusion?"

"I have already said in my speech today that I endorse every section of the Democratic platform adopted at the State convention at Louisville on the 15th day of August, 1911, but I will say now specifically I am in favor of the extension of the present local option law as applied to the sale of liquors so that the citizens of each and every county in the State may determine for themselves whether spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors may be sold there in. These are the exact words of the State Democratic platform."

"I came to this conclusion some time ago when the question of the extension of the county unit law became prominent, and I regard it as the best plan to settle an important question."

"If Judge O'Rear had read on the day of the State Democratic convention the published account of the views of the State Democratic candidates for office, he would have known that I and the other candidates for State offices were in favor of extending the county unit law."

Governor McCreary's bold acceptance of O'Rear's challenge will shock that distinguished jurist. He had hoped to put his Democratic opponent in a position where he would repudiate the solemn declarations of his party platform; but he evidently does not know the leader from Madison. When his party takes a stand he never flutters, and when, as in this case, it is in line with his convictions, he enters the contest with renewed courage.

Judge O'Rear will have to put another string on his harp.

PELLAGRA vs CORNBREAD

[Barboursville Advertiser]

"This is a much discussed question of today. The pellagra exists in this county, is an established fact. The first case reported was three years ago."

Cornbread has been prominent on the bill-of-fare in Knox County since the first log cabin was erected and the oven was placed in front of the broad chimney fire place.

Now, if the corn products of today were the same as used by our fore-fathers, the question would be in order, "Why did not they develop pellagra?" But they are not. The corn they used was grown here, put up after it was matured and well dried, and allowed to lay in the shucks until mid-winter, when the old fashion husking-bee was in order, and the short, and decayed ears were thrown aside and only the sound and well matured ears went into the crib. This was ground in small quantities at the old water mills, or horse mills which was in use at that period. The boy returning home with his turn assured the household of pure and wholesome bread.

But today, the mill boys are few, the water mills have vanished in decay, the grist mill in the country are run so fast that the meal is still hot when emptied into the barrel at home.

Corn is scarce and much faulty corn is sent to mill.

One cause of bad corn in this country is the eager desire to save seed, causing the farmer to cut and shuck his corn too sappy and in many cases mold develops, the hit and nutritious part is destroyed, and meal made from this corn is not healthy. But this is not all of the story; as in the west where much corn is grown for the market, both at home and abroad, the farmer wishes to market his corn early, needing the money and desiring to get the job off his hands, the product is gathered and thousands of bushels are piled in the fields, some of it not mature.

After the shucks are removed it is shelled by machinery, not in the manner in which we used to shell with bare hands when every ear was closely inspected.

It is then loaded into tight box cars and shipped to the mills. If it should beat while in transit, which quite a lot of it does, it is rushed through dryers before grinding and bolting, so, when the consumer receives this meal, nicely put up in sacks of uniform size and branded in large colored letters, with no assurance that it has not been shipped damp, heated and molded in transportation or in elevators, nor having been dried before grinding.

While the exact cause of pellagra is unknown, indications point to corn products as being not the least contributory to its existence. What shall we do? Must we stop using corn for bread purposes? I think not, as it is one of the staple food products and would be much missed from our tables on account of its popularity, as well as being the leading crop of this country, hence, making it a cheap, as well as palatable food.

Typhoid fever germs are known to exist in drinking water, still we drink the water. Tuberculosis bacilli is known to be in milk, still we drink milk. In the latter case we endeavored to avoid the contamination. Let this same rule apply to corn products. Patronize home industry as much as possible, using only Kentucky raised corn, ground at the mills in the vicinity of your homes, even if the wheels turn slowly and the time passes with some impatience felt on account of waiting. Leave corn syrups and starches off the menu. Every farmer should keep the very best corn out of his year's crop, placing it in a dry and well ventilated crib, for bread purposes. Trying to help the Pellagrains in every way possible, if there be any of the unfortunates in the community, and believe disease not to be contagious unless science proves it to be otherwise.

Dr. M. Pennington,
Barbour, Ky.

O'REAR WANTS TO CHANGE THE SUBJECT

No matter what policies the Republican national and State administration are committed to, they must not be discussed in Kentucky this year, because it might offend Judge O'Rear, whose peculiar mind can only shelter one idea at a time, and whose highly sensitive organization is so easily disturbed.

When President Taft comes out for reciprocity and has to rely on Democratic votes to pass the measure, and Congressman Langley, O'Rear's Campaign Manager votes against it, no mention must be made of the matter, because it annoys the super sensitive judge.

When President Taft urges Republican Senators to pass the arbitration treaties, and Ex President Roosevelt appeals to them to defeat them, no reference must be made to the fact, this year because Judge O'Rear wants to change the subject.

When a Democratic horse passes hills reducing the tariff on wool, and the farmers and laborers free list bill, and the Democrats of the Senate with the aid of Republican insurgents, enact these measures into laws, and a Republican President vetoes them, every Kentucky speaker must keep silent on the subject for the reason that Judge O'Rear publicly confesses that he has never read the bills nor heard of the vetoes.

When the official records show that Governor Wilson spent in three years and a half over $270,000 for State militia, Judge O'Rear objects to Governor McCreary's discussion of the matter, although the Republican platform, which he and Caleb Powers wrote, unreservedly endorses Wilson's administration. Nor does the Republican candidate think it polite for anybody to quote from the records the astonishing fact that Governor Wilson's Board of Equalization raised the value of farm lands for assessment purposes $61,000,000 to help pay the debt he incurred in coming out the troops.

Judge O'Rear will not permit the discussion of national questions in this Campaign, although he is urging the election of a Republican Legislature which will send to the United States Senate a man who, like Bradley, will vote against the reduction of the tariff and will line up with the predatory trusts.

Judge O'Rear will not permit a discussion of the issues that have been raised by an incompetent, extravagant Republican State administration, because he does not

The Dr. says it is an actual affliction and not a joke by any means, as many seem to think. Proper sanitation is the preventive, and its treatment is now simplified since experts under the Rockefeller fund have investigated the subject. One afflicted with the trouble gets that tired, lazy, listless feeling, shunning work or exertion whatever. The cause is from a very short, thread-like worm that gets into the system.

Another good citizen has moved to town in the person of Mr. E. G. Creech, a farmer from the Walker School House vicinity. Mr. Creech came to town for the purpose of educating his children, and will be connected with Conn Bros. in the hardware business. The number of people that move in to Lancaster every year is proof conclusive of the value of the Lancaster Graded School. —Lancaster Record.

Mt. Vernon is having the same experience. Our Graded School and the Brown Memorial School are doing the splendid work for town and county. The recent added building to the graded school gives greater facilities for the accommodation of the influx of pupils. The trustees have, in their principal, a master mind, a practical worker in his line and he gets satisfactory results from his efforts. The Brown Memorial school, now putting up an additional building, is doing great work and our people are proud of the institutions that are accomplishing such great results.

How some of our county post office and rail road stations got their names. Livingston was named for Ed Livingston a rail road conductor who was on the ground when the track was laid to Rockcastle Rivers edge way back in the 70's. He was a relative of the late R. L. Myers, of Pleasant Valley, a station 2 miles east of Mr. Vernon; name was changed to Cooks and later called Cove but now erased entirely from railroad station list. Pleasant Valley at one time was an important coal shipping point and was a stopping place often for days for the private coach of H. C. Murrell, a director of the L. & N. who was a great friend of M. J. Cook, a prominent citizen who owned lands in and around Pleasant Valley. Brodhead was also named for a construction constructor by that name who did the building of several miles of the railroad in our county. Maretburg, whose station name was Mt. Guthrie before post office was established there was named for SIGNAL's former editor and station agent. Withers (at Mullins Station) was named by David Withers a railroad contractor. Orlando (Brush Creek Station) was named by the late D. N. Williams as well as Wildie. The title is a combination of the names of Will and Dee Albright who were citizens of that locality when the K. C. road was built through there. Langford (Hummel Station) was named for Moses N. Langford. Conway took its name from the Conway heirs who owned large tracts of land in that locality when K. C. was built. Boone at Northern part of the county takes its name from Boones Gap which of course got its name from "Daniel the bar killer", (not Ike Bowman) Mt. Vernon, we suppose got its name in honor of George Washington's home in Virginia but the man who gave it the appellation is unknown on the pages of history today, 101 years after the county was organized. The fire of 1871 in county clerks office probably destroyed the evidence if it was ever placed on record. Wabsh, four miles South-west of Mt. Vernon was named from the initials of William Davis' name and he was its first postmaster. Low Level Green got its name from there being any "level" place there large enough to play a game of warbles on we didn't find it when there some years ago. The locality is fine and lots of good farms are found there and mighty good people along with them but the ground "aint level" by a whole passel. Bromo the post office of that good roads advocate, Peter Slutta took its name from Bromo Quinine tablets, so we are told. Copley is the name of a siding just north of Sinks tunnel; years ago it was known as Roundstone. At present Roundstone is located one mile north of Wildie moved itself as it were. Quail was given its name by the late W. G. Proctor who ran a country store at that point and in season purchased and handled great numbers of quail, usually called partridges. Johnetta was named for John and Etta Chenault, of Richmond, who had landed interests in that locality when Big Hill mines were in operation. Hansford got its name from Will Hansford who was running a store at that point when the post office was established. W. M. Owens (p. m. g.) at Burr says his office was not named for a patch of weeds that use to grow along there before he built his store house. Pine Hill gets its cognomen from a hill just South of the station. Spito probably gets its queer appellation from some drug or possibly "spirits frumenti." McCracken, in eastern part of county, gets its name from the McCracken family. Hiatt post office called by that name for A. C. Hiatt its first postmaster. We failed to learn where and how Pougo got its peculiar name, possibly in same manner Spiro and Bromo came into existence. Disputanta is the handiwork of the late D. N. Williams who was called in to settle the "dispute over what the name of the office should be; shortly afterward came Climax a few miles distant.

Some weeks ago Dr. S. C. Davis told the writer that Frank Moore, the jeweler, had pellagra but under his treatment was on road to recovery Tuesday, Dr. J. H. Hendren independent candidate for State Senate in this district, was here and upon investigation of Moore's case pronounced it a typical case of pellagra. The doctor says he has treated more than a hundred cases in his practice in South Eastern Kentucky and that more than ninety per cent of the patients recovered. He also stated very forcibly that our people should not take any scare at the case in town here as it is neither infectious or contagious and that Dr. Davis' treatment is on correct lines.

The Brown Memorial School was established here some years ago under the auspices of the Presbyterians. The funds for starting the school, as well as the church building and manse, were furnished by two members of the Brown Memorial church of Baltimore, from which the school takes its name, and the Presbyterian synod of New York City. The school was carried on some years in the building purchased of Mt. Vernon Collegiate Institute. Last year this building was disposed of to the Graded School trustees and the school has since been conducted in Langdon Dormitory. This school has proved so successful that the Baltimore and New York originators are having a large additional building erected in connection to dormitory to accommodate the increasing patronage. It is believed by the friends of the institute that if the school continues flourishing that a college building will be erected within next two years. Much credit is due the present principal and manager of the institution's affairs Miss McCord.

COSSIE SUTTON WRITES AN INTERESTING ARTICLE AND MAKES A SEN SIBLE SUGGESTION.

Being engaged in the general merchandise in this town and interested in the growth and prosperity of it, as well as the development of my own business, I desire to offer a suggestion to the business men of Mount Vernon and Rockcastle County.

I am in favor of the formation of an organization to promote, encourage and advertise the development of the commercial, manufacturing, industrial and civil interest of the city of Mount Vernon and the County of Rockcastle and to the end that the club's usefulness may not be misunderstood or impaired, I would suggest that the organization shall by resolution announce and declare that the Club shall never be committed to the support or endorsement of any candidate for public office and that no subject or measure, sectarian or political, shall be considered or discussed or voted on by the club; that the membership of the club be divided into two classes, active and associate; that the membership fee of the active members shall be ten dollars and that the annual dues shall be fixed by the club, not to exceed fifteen dollars per year, that associate members be admitted under such regulations as the club may provide but that they shall have no right to vote or participate in the management of the club's affairs; that the club select a secretary and Treasurer, who shall hold office one year and whose salary will be fixed by the club; that there shall be the following committees, on membership, on city and county development, a committee on press, who shall have charge of the publication of all documents and articles suited for publication and shall secure such notices in the news paper or papers as they may deem advantageous to the club and who shall have charge of all printing, etc. That the money collected from the dues and membership fees shall be expended in defraying the salary of the secretary and treasurer and in the development, by publication, through pamphlets, cards and various advertising many advantages of Mount Vernon and Rockcastle County.

We are very much in need of advertising to the world what we have at home, what Mount Vernon offers and what Rockcastle County has, the inviting of manufactures to locate among us; to advertise our splendid schools, our farming interests, shipping facilities, our beautiful and excellent quality of free stone, lime stone, our splendid sand and gravel, fire brick, cement, pottery, salt peter as a fertilizer. Mount Vernon should have a population of ten thousand instead of one thousand. She can easily have a taxable value of ten million in stead of two million dollars, but this can only be done by proper advertising. The manufacturers attention need be called to our inviting fields. We need foreign capital, push and brains and this is the way, in my opinion, to get it. By increasing the population of Mount Vernon and Rockcastle, all of us would be benefited. It would not be confined to any one merchant or businessman, but all would share in the profits. It would cause an awakening of every industrial interest and bring into our midst much more money and a high class of people. Prosperous towns and cities have adopted this plan and great have been the results. With the establishment of such a club, there will be a new dawn of civic pride, an awakening of municipal patriotism and the bringing of many industrial plants to this county, which to day are our greatest needs.

In conclusion, I would suggest that the organization, when formed, be called the "Industrial Club".

Respectfully, C. D. Sutton.
